

Actualizing Bodhicitta with Dorlöp Rinpoche, Aug. 4-16, 2026

Dorlöp Rinpoche (Dr. Hun Lye) grew up in a Buddhist home in Malaysia. From a young age, he studied and practiced Buddhism with teachers of various traditions. He met his first Tibetan teacher in USA when he was an undergraduate student. After earning a doctorate degree in Buddhist Studies at University of Virginia and teaching for ten years in American academic institutions, Dr. Lye left academia to devote his energy fully to Dharma work. In 2013, he was appointed as a Dorje Lopön (vajra-master) of the Drikung Kagyu Lineage by H.H. Drikung Kyabgon Thinley Lhundup and was formally enthroned and charged with the responsibility of transmitting the teachings and practices of the lineage that he has himself received and practiced well. Then he was sent by His Holiness to visit and teach at Drikung centers in South America. Dorlöp Rinpoche teaches in Asheville where he is founder and spiritual director at Urban Dharma North Carolina and Drikung Dharmakirti International Sangha. He also teaches on a regular basis over the internet to groups in Asia, North and South America. More information at <https://udharmanc.com/>
